Rumford Community Hospitzi will be hosting an organizational meeting for a swine flu immunization program on Thursday, Aug. 26, at 2:30 p. m. in the hospital conference room.

The hospital has been designated by the State as the coordinator of the immunization program for the fourteen towns in Northern Oxford County. Town officials have been invited to send a representative, who would serve as chairman of the program in their area, to Thursday's meeting. Health Information Forum memhers, who will assist with promo-tion, have also been invited along with other key persons.

The swine flu vaccine will be arriving in Maine the latter part of September or early October in proparation for an anticipated out break of swine flu.

Some 22,000 people in Northern
Oxford County should be immuniz.

TO BE PRESERVED ed during the month of October to avoid a possible epidemic in this area before the "flu-season" starts in November. To accomplish this task, the hospital will need the assistance of many volunteers. Interested nurses and volunteers may contact Jacqueline Horner, RN, director of nurses, or Rosabelle Tifft, director of public relations and personnel, at the Rumford Community Hospital. Names of those volunteering from area towns will be forwarded to the green to the street of the street Rapresents. the area chairmen. Representa-tives from Bethel at the Aug. 26 meeting will be Sue Laban and Merton Brown.

YOUTH CONSERVATION CORPS TERMINATE SUMMER PROGRAM

Ten Bethel area High School age youngsters completed eight weeks of employment with the U. S. Forest Service last Friday. One of their final work programs was a Civic Action Project involving the projection of the Partlet the protection of the Bartlett Cemetery on the East Bethel Road. This cemetery is the resting place of many of Bethel's forefathers and Revolutionary War Veterans.

TO BE PRESERVED

In 1895, the town of Newry appropriated the sum of $300, to construct a schoolhouse in District No. 1. Eighty-one years later this same one-room structure stands as one of the few remaining links with turn of the century education in rural Oxford County. On Saturday, Sept. 4, from 10 to 12, and 1 to 4, the District No. 1, Lower Sunday River School, will be open to inspection. Visitors will once again confront the scene of learning with its accordinglying disciplines. Sunday River School has been designated as the two of Newry's Bicentennial Project under the control of the co der the direction of Mrs. Florence Baker, Sunday River Road.

The school in question was used as such for fifty years, closing its doors in 1945. Thereafter, Mrs. Julia Fleet conducted Sunday School classes in the building for a number of years.

The Sunday River School presents a rather startling interior atmosphere, for still contained are many of the implements common to such schools. Those visiting Saturday will note the school deeks urday will note the school desks (of 1872 vintage), kerosene lamps,

SECOND TIME TO BUDGET For the second time in less than two months voters of the Northern Oxford Vocational Area have rejected a budget proposed by the Area's cooperative board. The area embraces the towns of Andover, Bethel, Byron, Canton Carthage, Dixfield, Greenwood, Hanover, Newry, Peru, Roxbury, Rumford and Woodstock.

On Tuesday evening of this week at a meeting held at Rumford High School, NOVA voters rejected a budget of $154,004, to provide at the same location an amount of $234,582 was turned down.

According to current state stat-NEW ELEMENTARY STUDENTS ute and Maine Department of Education regulations no funds expended for secondary vocational education will be reimbursed unless the program is operated by a vocational area. The rate of reim-bursement for funds expended by a vocational area is reported to be 90%.

This is said to be the initial time this situation has existed since the Vocational Areas were mandated by the State Legislature throughout the state three years ago. School officials are reportedly currently conferring with the State Attorney General's office and Department of Education officials in an attained the first of the state an attempt to find at least a partial solution.

The part of the S. A. D. #44 offerings most affected by the NOVA problem is Co-Operative Education and to a lesser degree Telstar students enrolled in Trado Courses at Rumford.

The old snow roller, once used by the town to roll roads on Sun-day River, has been donated to The Bethel Historical Society. The roller has been behind the buildings on the former Robert Foster place, owned by Romeo Baker since 1953, and much of the wood work has rotted away, but enough is left for a pattern, so that it may be restored It is made in two sections tions, each about six feet in diameter and four feet wide, with a wooden frame work around it and a seat on top for the driver of the four, six and sometimes eight horses that pulled it. Each roller is made from planks fastened to approximately six foot diameter iron wheels and the two rolls are placed side by side, thus making an eight foot roller. It was used to pack down the snow on town roads from some time in the early 1900's until 1927, when the town purchased a tractor and plow at a price of $5,438. A few years later truck plows were bought and the tractor was used for heavy duty until about 1950, when it was sold. The roller will be rewooded where necessary, and it will be on exhi-

GARDEN NOTES

Andover's Heritage Day on Saturday, August 14, provid-ed a glimpse of homes and gardens from an earlier time. The town was established at the turn of the eighteenth century by settlers from North Andover, Mass. The first saw-mill in Andover, essential in turning logs harvested in clearing the land into building material for permanent homes, was erected in 1791 and the home of Minuteman Ezekial Merrill soon followed.

A basic method of landscaping by carving out timber and underbrush to form pleasing open spaces and to frame distant views was used often to site ploneer homes, often centered in clearings. The Indians in the area were recorded as friendly and helpful in providing the first settlers with food unwas a constant threat, anotherreason to keep building sites open. Whatever the logic, many illustrations of early New England homes show them free of shrubbery, though the planting of occa-

the house the first chores were to plant gardens and or hards. The primary needs were food and medicinal herbs, but seeds of cherished flowers were probably carried from old homes and started Bethel and Vicinity as soon as possible. Garden escapes along highway verges in the - Mrs. Donald Walker, Corres. - Andover area are mute testimony to women's foibles. Most of the native wild flowers we enjoy today were here then brightening bogs, marshes and stream banks, and decorating woody hillsides. Clearing pastures provided for the spread of those plants which favor fields and damp meadows.

The Heritage Day flower show featured arrangements of the sort Mrs. Merrill might have used to brighten her home, using native flowers and some an earlier Merrill could have carried from Eng-Mrs. Lenny Shaw is spending a land as seed in the early 1600's in week with Capt. and Mrs. Theodore McKnight in Xenia, Ohio.

Another large cup held Phlox, Loosestripe and Cornflowers, all in shades of purple, pink and lavender. A sowing basket with open lid lined in green to match the fern-like foliage of Yarrow was filled with Black-eyed Susans. A blue and white flowered bowl with harmonizing spikes of Veronica and the small poms of Achillea ptarmica would have coordinated well with Delft tile used in genteel parlors for fireplace surrounds. Letters to the Editor

West Bethel, Maine August 23, 1976

To the Editor: May I use your columns to clarify my position on some problems recently brought to me. I need to dispel certain misapprehersions of some people in the

While I was a professional social worker for many years, I have been relired for six years, and do not wish to act as a consultant on any type of case problem. The Municipal office must have on file the names of agency profes-sionals who consult on different case problems, and to whom people with problems should go. Also while I have a deep concern for animal welfare as well as human welfare, I am not a humane agent (I do belong to Maine Society for Protection of Animals).

Some years ago I did serve as a volunteer in the Androscoggin Valley for Friends of Animals, in trying to educate the public on care of animals. I received so many nuisance calls, I chose to give up-such volunteer work which was wholly educational in nature, I have neither the facilities nor funds to offer an animal shelter. Unfortunately there is no shel-ter within several miles. However, problems of stray, abandoned, ab-used and neglected animals can be brought to the attention of Town officials through the Municipal office, and also to the local Veterinary, or other veterinaries in this area.

I do maintain an active interest in legislative action - both State and Federal, for the benefit of human welfare and animal welfare, and this is the extent of my activity, as a relired person, in the fields of human, and animal welfare,

Sincerely, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Carter

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Treating high blood pressure takes more than one person, it is a combination of the patient, the physician and the pharma-

1. If you don't know whether you have high blood pressure, ask us at Clukey's or your doctor to check your pressure. You should do this even if you feel well because high blood pressure may not have any noticeable symptoms.

2. If you have high blood pressure, follow your doctor's instructions about taking medicine, dief-including weight loss if you are overweight-and changes in general health habits, such as rest and recreation. These measures will reduce the risk of stroke, heart attack, kidney fallure and heart fallure.

3. When your physician prescribes medications, keep taking them whether you feel well as not, and whether you think the drups are helping or hurting. Report exactly how you feel to your declor. He can then make any suitable changes needed in your treatment program, or he can ask us to dispense a different medication that may be more suitable to yeur individual condition.

4. Cooperate with the health team of physician and pharmaclot. Werking tegether, blood pressure can be kept under con-

IMMUNIZATION PROGRAM INFORMATION RECEIVED

continued from Page One 200,000 people, to be immunized in a three week period in early

Phase II of the program calls for the administration of a mono-valent vaccine (consisting of only the swine-like virus) to the remainder of the population down through age three. It is possible that individuals less than 19 years of age may require a second dose of vaccine after an interval of four weeks.

Vaccine will be administered by needle and syringe to small communities, by jet gun in densely populated areas.

Charles Okey also reported to the legislative committee that the Public Health Laboratory will par-ticipate in an international surveil-lance system to detect the presence of swine flu virus. To date the viruses have not been isolated anywhere in the world, having been identified only in Fort Dix, N. J., in January. Okey hypothesized that swine flu is not likely to be present in epidemic form, but are four than a page rather than but prefers to be safe rather than sorry by going ahead with the mass immunization.

Rep. Saunders hopes that anyone desiring further information on this, or any other problem involving state government, contact her for assistance.

MAINE POPULATION STILL ON RISE

As part of its continuous effort determine population changes the State of Maine, the State Planning Office analyzed data re-ceived from the Division of Motor Vehicles for the first six months of 1976. This data reflects only those individuals from out of state who apply for Maine drivers li-

As compared to the first six month period of 1975, the 1976 data shows a slight increase in population. During January through June, 1976, 6,127 people turned in out of state licenses, a jump of over 300 during the same period in 1976. However, as compared to the last six month period in 1975, the 1976 data reveals a decrease. It should be noted however, that the majority of the summer moving months are in the second six month figures.

The percentage of younger immigrants to the state has also increased over the 1975 figures. Comparing the same six month periods of 1975 and 1976, there was a 3% increase in both the16-

STATE FOREST NURSERY NEEDS CONES

The State Forest Nursery of the Maine Bureau of Forestry announces the need for 100 bushel of white pine cones, 50 bushel red pine, 400 bushel white spruce, 200 bushel Norway spuce and 200 bushel black spruce. The State Nur-sery, located in Greenbush, grows approximately three million forest seedlings each year for planting on marginal lands in Maine,

Prices per bushel, delivered to the local Bureau Forester are as follows: white pine $3.00, red pine $10., white spruce $7., Norway spruce $2.50, black spruce $8. Prospective cone pickers should contact their local state service forester who will inspect the cones before picking. The forester will provide burlap bags for collecting

All cones must be ripe and unopened. White spruce and white pine cones generally ripen in late August and can be picked until the cones open in September Norway spruce and red pine can be picked anytime during the fall. Black spruce should be picked during the fall. The cones can be picked from freshly cut tree tops lying on the ground on logging operations or trees can be climbed and the cones removed. Further information can be obtained by contacting the Maine Bureau of Forestry, Augusta, telephone 289-2791. CONSERVATIONISTS CITED

IN GOODYEAR PROGRAM Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District has been hailed as runner-up in the Annual Goodyear Conservation Awards program in Maine. The Oxford District, composed of landowners interested in con-servation of the area's soil and water resources, was chosen for its accomplishments over the past year in resource management and development.

The contest is sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in cooperation with the National Association of Conservation

Oxford's Board of Supervisors was presented a plaque in recognition of this outstanding work at the recent meeting of the Maine Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. The Conservation Board of Supervisors includes Norris Conant, Canton, Chairman: Alvin Brown of East Waterford; John M. Longley of Norway, Evan Thurlow of Mechanic Falls and Dana Douglass of Bethel.

Named as outstanding coopera-tor of the District was Fred Greenwood of Buckfield. The apple grower has been a cooperator with the District since 1961 and has installed numerous conservation measures on his land.
